Dear College Panhellenic Conference Community,

Hello and happy first week back to classes. I appreciate the sense of community and outreach I have been seeing across our council. We, the CPC Executive Board, have been working hard at trying to figure out how to navigate our council remotely due to the ever changing environment we are in due to COVID-19. This pandemic is one that should be taken seriously, and during these trying times we should remember the community we work so hard to improve everyday.

At the last CPC meeting, I said remember to be patient and polite. That still rings true, there are many unanswered questions in life right now but the FSL team and executive boards are working on plans for the rest of the semester. I was talking to a faculty member the other day and they gave me a great piece of advice that I want to share with all of you. Remember that we are students first. We have to focus on academics and how to be successful in our own way. For some people, that might mean to make a physical space in the place they are staying or to make a routine. Along with academic success, being a student also means to take care of yourself and mental health.

Along with being a student, remember that we are still a part of the Panhellenic community. Support your chapter members, remember to communicate with one another. Check in on the New Members who are still navigating an even more confusing situation than a typical new member process. Check in on the seniors who are soon to be alumnae and have had many of their last memories as an active member and college member cancelled or postponed. Be patient, be kind.

Lastly, I want to remind people that the CPC Executive Board are here to support you. We are here to make sure that you are doing well during a difficult time. Please feel free to email us, even if it is just to say hello. I wish you all the best during this time, please stay safe, stay at home, and wash your hands.

Sincerely,

Liz Massien – CPC President
